Miracles or Myths: Advances in Luting Cements for Ceramics

Mark A. Latta, DMD, MS

Dean and Professor of General Dentistry, Creighton University School of Dentistry

With the advent of high strength ceramics like zirconia, new advances are needed to assure adequate adhesion and retention of restorations made from these materials. A review of the many cements available and their best applications will be covered in this presentation.

Objectives:

1. Review foundational information to assist in the selection of the best luting cement for a given material and clinical situation
